

The proposed fax regulations regarding unsolicited fax advertisements should be changed. Exemptions should include established business relationships. Member organizations, such as the Better Business Bureaus, rely heavily on the ability to fax to its members announcements of upcoming programs and services. If this practice must be stopped, we will be forced to send these member benefits by mail and will needlessly spend thousands of dollars on printing and postage. We are a non-profit organization. Our 5500 members benefit from these programs and the most cost efficient manner to communicate these benefites is by faxing. Please reconsider this legislation. Thank you for your consideration.
